Course Description:

A descriptive and analytical study of fundamental concepts of national economics. Topics include an overview of macroeconomics, measuring gross domestic product, inflation and unemployment, supply and demand (including the multiplier process), business cycles, long-term growth, banking and monetary policy, interest rates, deficits and fiscal policy, and international trade and finance. Economic analysis of monetary and fiscal policies is stressed.

Course Goals:

Students who successfully complete this course will demonstrate competency in the following general education core goals:

- Critical thinking skills – Students will engage in creative and/or innovative thinking, and/or inquiry, analysis, evaluation, synthesis of information, organizing concepts, and constructing solutions.
- Communication skills – Students will demonstrate effective written, oral, and visual communication.
- Teamwork – Students will demonstrate the ability to work effectively with others to support a shared purpose or goal and consider different points of view.
- Social responsibility – Students will demonstrate intercultural competency and civic knowledge by engaging effectively in local, regional, national, and global communities.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- understand the forces determining macroeconomic variables such as inflation, unemployment, interest rates, and the exchange rate;
- demonstrate how supply and demand interact to determine market prices;

- demonstrate how the tools of aggregate demand and aggregate supply are used to determine macroeconomic equilibrium;
- describe and evaluate the dynamics and effectiveness of fiscal and monetary policy;
- analyze the consequences of trade for international financial flows;
- differentiate between the main macroeconomic theories of the business cycle.

Textbooks/Supplies/Materials/Equipment/ Technology or Technical Requirements:

Karl E. Case, Ray C. Fair and Sharon E. Oster, Principles of Macroeconomics, Pearson Prentice Hall (13th ed., 2020).

Course Requirements:*Class Participation

Active participation in class discussions is required. Students are encouraged to ask questions, share their perspectives, and engage with the lecture material critically. Regular attendance and participation are crucial for success in this component.

Quizzes

Random quizzes will be administered at the beginning of classes to assess students' understanding of the material from the previous lectures. These quizzes will be short, consisting of multiple-choice or short-answer questions.

Midterm Exam

The midterm exam will assess students on their understanding of the core macroeconomic concepts discussed in the first half of the course. It will consist of multiple-choice questions, short-answer questions, and essay-style questions. Topics covered will include resource allocation, supply and demand, national income, unemployment, inflation, and fiscal policy. Students will be expected to demonstrate both theoretical knowledge and the ability to apply economic concepts to real-world scenarios.

Final Exam

The final exam is a comprehensive assessment that covers all course material. It will include a mix of multiple-choice, short-answer, and essay questions. The exam will test students' understanding of macroeconomic theory and their ability to analyze current economic issues using the tools and concepts learned throughout the course. In addition, students will be asked to discuss how fiscal and monetary policy, the banking system, and international trade influence national economies.

Group Project

Students will work in small groups to analyze a current macroeconomic issue, such as a specific fiscal policy, monetary policy, or international trade agreement. The project will culminate in both a written report and an oral presentation. The report should include data analysis, economic reasoning, and policy recommendations. The oral presentation will allow groups to explain their findings to the class, and students will be evaluated on their ability to communicate complex economic concepts clearly and effectively.

Assessments: Activity	Percent Contribution
Class Participation	10%
Quizzes	20%
Midterm Exam	25%
Final Exam	30%

Accommodation Statement:

Academic accommodations may be made for any student who notifies the instructor of the need for an accommodation. It is imperative that you take the initiative to bring such needs to the instructor's attention, as he/she is not legally permitted to inquire. Students who may require assistance in emergency evacuations should contact the instructor as to the most appropriate procedures to follow.

Academic Integrity Statement

Each student is expected to maintain the highest standards of honesty and integrity in academic and professional matters. The University reserves the right to take disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal, against any student who is found guilty of academic dishonesty or otherwise fails to meet the standards. Any student judged to have engaged in academic dishonesty in coursework may receive a reduced or failing grade for the work in question and/or for the course.

Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, dishonesty in quizzes, tests, or assignments; claiming credit for work not done or done by others; hindering the academic work of other students; misrepresenting academic or professional qualifications within or without the University; and nondisclosure or misrepresentation in filling out applications or other University records.

Other Items:

Attendance and Expectations

All students are required to attend every class, except in cases of illness, serious family concerns, or other major problems. We expect that students will arrive on time, be prepared to listen and participate as appropriate, and stay for the duration of a meeting rather than drift in or out casually. In short, we anticipate that students will show professors and fellow students maximum consideration by minimizing the disturbances that cause interruptions in the learning process. This means that punctuality is a must, that cellular phones be turned off, and that courtesy is the guiding principle in all exchanges among students and faculty. You will be responsible for the materials and ideas presented in the lecture.

Assignment Due Dates

All written assignments must be turned in at the time specified. Late assignments will not be accepted unless prior information has been obtained from the instructor. If you believe you have extenuating circumstances, please contact the instructor as soon as possible.

Make-Up Work

The instructor will not provide students with class information or make-up assignments/quizzes/exams missed due to an unexcused absence. Absences will be excused and assignments/quizzes/exams may be made up only with written documentation of an authorized absence. Every effort should be made to avoid scheduling appointments during class. An excused student is responsible for requesting any missed information from the instructor and setting up any necessary appointments outside of class.

Access, Special Needs and Disabilities

Please notify the instructor at the start of the semester if you have any documented disabilities, a medical issue, or any special circumstances that require attention, and the school will be happy to assist.
